Rev. Father McMenamin's Appointment.

Rev. Hugh L. McMenamin is the newly appointed pastor of the Immaculate Conception cathedral. The announcement was made last Sunday after Bishop N. C. Matz had notified Father McMenamin by letter of the honor conferred upon him. Father McMenamin was the pastor after a three months' test of his ability to look after the spiritual and temporal affairs of a large and flourishing congregation. The appointment is gratifying to the hundreds of friends of the young priest who felicitate in his good fortune, while they lament the fate which holds Father Percy A. Phillips, the last pastor of the cathedral in a sick room at Vancouver, B. C.

As a pulpit orator Father McMenamin has few superiors in the country, and although a young man, he has earned a reputation for this talent. Aside from this fact, he has enjoyed remarkable success in directing the finances of the parish during the time he has acted as temporary pastor, and there is every indication that his work will be a strong factor in making possible the erection of the cathedral which has been under way for some time.

Father McMenamin was ordained eight years ago last month at Baltimore by Cardinal Gibbons, after pursuing his studies at the Sulpician seminary. His first station was at Colorado Springs, where he was assistant to Father Frederick Bender at St. Mary's church. Three years ago last January he was made assistant pastor of the cathedral in Denver, and has met with marked success in that position. This fact is recognized by Bishop Matz in the letter appointing Father McMenamin of his appointment.

The bishop says that the three months covered by Father McMenamin's quasi-pastorate have been eminently satisfactory, and that during that short period the net sum of $2,500 had been turned over to the cathedral building committee over and above the expenses of running the parish. Bishop Matz declares that this speaks volumes for the financial ability of Father McMenamin, and says he appreciates that much of the money was raised by the personal effort of the acting pastor.

Gravely, the bishop announces that the time has come when the cathedral parish will have to strain every nerve to build a grand cathedral, and that the people are ready and willing to do their share. He speaks of the initiative of the building committee in letting the contract for the new cathedral to a local firm, and says that the estimated cost of the new cathedral, including the cost of the new roof amounting in all to $1,500,000, trusting to the generosity of the congregation to subscribe the needed money.

In turning over to the new pastor the rectory of the cathedral, Bishop Matz authorized him to assume full charge of the collection of pew rents and seat money, and gives him jurisdiction over the Sunday plate collections. He is instructed to pay running expenses out of the proceeds and turn any balance to the building fund. In addition to this responsibility, Father McMenamin is to take charge of all affairs and subscriptions, and see that the money goes directly to the building committee. The latter closes with a prayer for a blessing on the new labor of Father McMenamin.

Church Notes.

Rev. Charles Hagus, ordained at Louvain, Belgium, July 12, will sing his first high mass in Logan avenue chapel on Sunday, Aug. 30. On that occasion Rev. M. W. Donovan, pastor of the church at Oury, and an old classmate of young Father Hagus, will preach the sermon. Father Louis F. Hagus will assist in the celebration of the holy sacrifice.

On last Sunday afternoon the Young Women's Sodality of the cathedral parish threw open the doors of their new library for the inspection of the congregation. The hours between 4 and 5 o'clock were devoted exclusively to inspection, and in the evening the Sodality members held a little reception in the new room. The shelves are well stocked with interesting and instructive literature, and the library will be liberally patronized.

In order to accommodate the large enrollment of students at Immaculate Conception school, an extra room is being fitted up for the opening of the fall term in September. The roof is being lifted between the gables, and in that space will be fitted the new class room.

Saturday, Aug. 1, the Feast of the Portentum was observed at St. Elizabeth's church. The special indulgence will be granted the faithful who visit the Franciscan church on that day just as in former years, and there is no doubt that many will avail themselves of this grace.

Saturday, Aug. 8, will be the occasion for the picnic in aid of St. Vincent's orphanage at Manhattan Beach. Elaborate preparations have been made to insure the financial success of the entertainment, and it is expected that all friends of the orphanage and all those who have the interest of St. Vincent's at heart will attend and add their mite to the fund which will be used next winter to provide food and the asylum.

Personal.

Miss Nellie Maher is at St. Joseph's hospital, where she is rapidly recovering from the effects of a delicate operation.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Barry and family have moved from 2083 Oscon street into the new and pretty home recently purchased by them at Thirteenth avenue and Adams street.

Miss Augustine Girardot is enjoying her summer vacation at Estes Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Hagan have taken a cottage at Estes Park for the balance of the season, and will establish themselves there during the week.

Miss Angela Gilmore and Miss Marie Gilmore recently entertained at an elaborate card party.

John F. Campbell and family have gone to Glenwood Springs for the remainder of the heated term.

Miss Jennie Fisher has returned from Idaho Springs, where she was enjoying the baths.

Mr. and Mrs. George O. Dostal and little daughter, Marie, have gone to Chicago for a month's visit with the parents of Mrs. Dostal.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Sayer have gone to Buffalo Park.

Terrence Connelly and family of the Cathedral parish will leave in September for Los Angeles, where they will remain for a year at least, and possibly establish a permanent residence there.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Giese have returned to Denver after an extended stay in Chicago with the parents of Mrs. Giese, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Schlack, former residents of Denver.

Mrs. E. J. Collins has given up her home at 1104 East Twentieth avenue, and for the remainder of her stay in the city will board at 1825 Pennsylvania avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Dunn and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunn are among the strangers enjoying the beauties of the country around Buffalo Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas P. Savage are spending their summer vacation in South Platte canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kirk have opened a cottage at Colorado Springs, where they will rusticate for the balance of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin J. O'Fallon of the Cathedral parish write that their journey in Ireland, the native birth of both, is surpassing their most sanguine expectations.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Reddin expect soon to return from New York City, where they have been visiting. Their youngest son has been in ill health, which fact hastens their return.

Mrs. John O'Neill and baby daughter, Geraldine, have returned from Georgetown, where they spent a few days.

Miss Anna O'Neill of 1642 Clarkson street is slowly recovering from blood poisoning, caused by an injury to her arm.

Mrs. James J. Brown and daughter, Helen, who are traveling abroad, will not return for some months yet. Miss Helen is pursuing her studies.

Mrs. T. J. O'Donnell and son, Canton, are in Ireland. They have been making an extensive tour of the continent and are now doing the British Isles.

Miss Angela Gilmore has returned from Platte canyon, where she was devoting her time to the Juvenile Improvement society's summer home work. Miss Gilmore returned to the city to assist in making a picnic at Elitch's gardens on Aug. 15, for the society, a success.

Miss Elizabeth A. Allen and Thomas A. Goodson were quietly married last Saturday morning in the Logan avenue chapel by Father H. L. McMenamin. Mr. Goodson came from Glen's Falls, N. Y., and his friends, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard J. McGarry, were the witnesses to the ceremony.

Another wedding of Saturday occurred in the evening at the chapel where Mr. Gabriel J. Jordan and William Rowan were married by Father McMenamin.

Obituary.

Joseph Gavin, an old and highly respected settler of Denver, died during the week at his home, 1601 Hayward place. Mr. Gavin was a native of Ireland, and though coming to this country in early manhood retained a strong love and interest in the land of his birth and was recognized as one of the foremost Irishmen in the city. He was a devout Catholic and the memory of his religious and upright life is a rich heritage for his children. His funeral took place Tuesday, July 22, with high mass of requiem at St. Dominic's church, where an eloquent funeral sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. Francis O'Neill, O. P. Burial was in Mount Olivet cemetery. Mr. Gavin is survived by four daughters and three sons, all grown and occupying important positions in the community. They are the Misses Sadie, Clara, May and Theresa, and Messrs. Joseph, John and Mark Gavin.

Charles W. Fay, for years a leading contractor of the city, died last week at his home, 2445 Stout street. The direct cause of death was stomach trouble, from which he had long been a sufferer. Mr. Fay was born in Ireland in 1842, and twenty-five years ago took up his residence in Denver and immediately became prominent in the business life of the young and growing city. His funeral was held on Tuesday, July 22, from Sacred Heart church. Burial was in Mount Olivet cemetery. Mr. Fay leaves a widow, three sons, Charles G., Henry F., and John C. Fay, and two daughters, Mrs. Anna Wetherhead and Miss Catherine Fay.

BUTTE, MONT.

P. M. Halloran, auditor of the Butte, Anaconda & Pacific railroad, chaptered a party of young people at the gardens Tuesday night. They were Misses Maud Johnson and Angela Halloran of Anaconda. May Gavin of this city and Will Halloran of the smelter city.

The body of John D. Sullivan, who died in Salt Lake Sunday, was brought to Butte Tuesday and was taken to the residence of Patrick Leahy, 105 Sutter street. Mr. Sullivan was a native of Montana, some valuable transfers were made in the west side within a short week. Residences will be erected soon by Banker A. L. Smith, Railroad Contractor A. B. Cook, George Hall, William Wallace and many other prominent citizens.

CATHOLIC PROGRESS.

On the east side the new Catholic high school and cathedral on Ward street and Tenth avenue are under way, and mean much for our progressive city when completed. Our worthy and zealous bishop is doing his utmost for the advancement of the spiritual cause of his flock. St. Vincent's academy is undergoing a process of renovation, and has dozens of skilled laborers working to add not only to its beauty, but to its size. The estimate of the improvement is placed at $15,000. This means an additional story to the old St. Vincent's. The superstructure on the foundation of the high school was commenced last week. The excavations for the new cathedral will soon be completed. These new buildings, in addition to the other Catholic institutions in Helena, when finished, will make Helena one of the best equipped Catholic dioceses in the west.

HELENA, MONT.

(Special Correspondence.)

The stir in real estate in this city indicates not only its growth but the confidence of investors in the future developments of the capital of the state of Montana. Some valuable transfers were made in the west side within a short week. Residences will be erected soon by Banker A. L. Smith, Railroad Contractor A. B. Cook, George Hall, William Wallace and many other prominent citizens.

Mrs. L. N. Putnam and son of Salt Lake City arrived in Evanston Thursday and will spend a couple of weeks with old-time friends. "Can you tell me how I can get to a hospital?" asked an excited individual of Evanston's popular city marshal. "Sure," replied the jovial officer. "Just go among the railroad men and yell 'Hurray for Taft.'"—Wyoming Times.

CARSON CITY, NEV.

The angel of death visited the Considine home yesterday and removed from his earthly sphere of activity Joseph Considine, one of the old residents of Nevada.

"Jo" Considine has lived in Nevada since 1866, when he moved to Silver City from California. He was born in Kilrush, Ireland, in 1834, and his 32 years of life have been full of activity. Up to a few months ago he was in the service of the state, but ill health compelled him to move to Reno, where his son, John L. Considine, lives. Since that time the father has steadily declined, until Thursday, when he became unconscious.

At the time of his death he was surrounded by his family, his wife, his daughter, Miss Mary, and his son, John, who had watched at his bedside night and day since his illness became acute.

Sunday afternoon the last rites will be paid the deceased husband and father at St. Thomas' church at the Catholic cemetery. The deceased was well known in this city, where he lived for a number of years, and where he was watchman for the state at the state treasurer's office. He removed to Reno several months ago and has since made his home with his son, John Considine.

The sympathy of the many friends of the family residing in this city is extended to those left to mourn his loss.

Mrs. Martha McClure Gotwaldt, mother of W. M. Gotwaldt, former editor of the Carson City News, died at a San Francisco hospital yesterday, following an operation for cancer, from which she has been a sufferer for a long time. Mrs. Gotwaldt was known to a number of people in this city, having visited here during the time that her son was editing a local paper. The sympathy of Mr. Gotwaldt's friends is extended to him in his hour of sorrow. —Carson Daily Appeal.

What is Life to You?

(Baltimore Sun.) To the preacher life's a sermon. To the joker life's a jest; To the miser life is money. To the loafer life is rest.

To the lawyer life's a trial. To the poet life's a song; To the doctor life's a patient. That needs treatment right along.

To the soldier life's a battle. To the teacher life's a school; Life's a good thing to the grafter. It's a failure to the fool.

To the man upon the engine. Life's a long and heavy grade; It's a gamble to the gambler. To the merchant life's a trade.

Life's a picture to the artist. To the rascal life's a fraud; Life is but a burden to the miser. To the man beneath the hod.

Life is lovely to the lover. To the player life's a play; Life may be a load of trouble. To the man upon the dray.

Life is but a long vacation. To the man who loves his work; Life's an everlasting effort. To shun duty to the shirk.

To the heaven's blest romancer. Life's a story ever new; Life is what we try to make it—Brother, what is life to you?

When Fasting is Fatal.

During a long fast the daily loss of weight becomes gradually less and less. Death comes when the total loss has reached a certain percentage, which percentage varies with the original weight. But animals may lose half their weight, thinner ones perhaps two-fifths.

A man or woman of rather spare habit, weighing 143 pounds, could, therefore, lose about fifty-five pounds before succumbing. Heart action, respiration and blood pressure remain unaltered during starvation, but the temperature of the body falls nearly a degree in most cases. The secretion of gastric juice ceases, but saliva and bile are still formed. The duration of life depends upon the extent and activity of the physiological processes.

Children die after a fast of from three to five days, during which they have lost a quarter of their weight. Healthy adults, however, have fasted sixty days when water has been taken.

A German physician notes the case of a woman, aged 47, who died after a fast of forty-three days, during which she drank water freely. Her weight, which was 143 pounds a year before her death, was reduced to ninety-nine pounds. It was a case of suicidal melancholia, and the woman patiently carried out her horrible undertaking so quietly as to scarcely attract the notice of her family and died at last calmly and peacefully, without complaint or apparent evidence of suffering.

Sermons Boiled Down.

(Chicago Tribune.) Character depends more on conscience than on creed.

Religion is not to bind back, but to bind together all men.

The god who can be expressed in figures is only a figurative god after all.

He who sells out his friends lays his own soul on the bargain counter.

Success is not so much in getting there as in knowing what you are there for.

Envy is the habit of extracting our own misery out of the happiness of others.

The greatness of any man's present depends on the length of his view of the future.

Salvation is more than consciousness of my soul; it is the sense of the worth of every soul.

Those who think they have all religion are the ones who most need to worry whether they have any.

The difference between what we are and what we know we ought to be is the great opportunity in life. When a man lets the wind blow all the angles off his house he talks of the strange way of Providence. You are not likely to do much for the poor fellow on the Jericho road if you are anxious for the approval of the Pharisee.

Untaken, and Not Paid For.

(Calgary (Canada) Herald.) Andy McTavish was "no feelin' just well," so he went to the doctor and stated his complaints.

"What do you drink?" demanded the medico. "Whiskey."

"How much?" "Maybe a bottle a day."

"Do you smoke?" "Yes."

"Yes."

"How much?" "Two ounces a day."

"Do you give up whiskey and tobacco altogether?"

Andy took up his cap and in three steps reached the door.

"Andy," called the doctor, "you have not paid for my advice."

"Ah, no! takin' it," snapped Andy as he shut the door behind him.
